

REGISTRATION OPEN

BAICE Research Student Conference

Linking practice to theory and theory to practice: Theorising methodologies, methods and issues in post-graduate research in international and comparative education

University of Sussex on Friday 15 January 2010

Keynote Presentation

Professor Leon Tikly, University of Bristol

Student Presentations

Theme A: Education and epistemology

Pedagogy and culture in Morocco: epistemological foundations and practice

Zineb Gormat and Joel Mitchell, Institute of Education, University of London

Epistemology and teacher-centred method: implications for innovative adult instructors

Igbafe Eucharia, University of Benin, Nigeria

An epistemological spectrum of research regarding teacher quality in Tanzania

Sharon Tao, Institute of Education, University of London

Transplanting leadership theories from the developed world to the developing world: tensions and dilemmas

Nadeem Khan, University of Nottingham

Theme B: Frameworks of education research

Researching across academic cultures

Cecelia Ibarra Mendoza, University of Sussex

The development and application of analytical frameworks in international and comparative research

Laura Johnson, Institute of Education, University of London

Social identity theory, faith schools and tolerance: putting theory into practice

Helen Everett, Institute of Education, University of London

Theme C: Gender and power in education research

Gender and use of mixed methods for international students' mobility research

Gunjan Sondhi, University of Sussex

Studying elites: eight interviews in the educational field in China

Jingyi Li, University of Edinburgh

A Foucauldian conception of 'empowerment' through action research

Paul Fean, University of Sussex

This event is FREE to BAICE student members.

To register for the conference, contact Paul Fean, BAICE Student Representative (p.fean@sussex.ac.uk) by Friday 8 January 2010.

www.baice.ac.uk